Cardiovascular Conference at Snowshoe

Jan. 27 through 29, 2012
 Mountain Lodge Conference Center
 Snowshoe, WV

Program Overview and Description

This will be the 31st midwinter cardiovascular conference held at Snowshoe and will be co-sponsored by CAMC Health Education and Research Institute, the American College of Cardiology Foundation and Duke University Division of Cardiology. The conference is designed to assist the physician caring for adult patients with complex cardiac problems and traditionally has dealt with the various difficult management problems that occur in patients with cardiovascular disease.

Evening "Meet the Experts" sessions and a complimentary lunch on the ski slopes will provide opportunities for informal discussions among attendees and speakers. In response to evaluation requests, more opportunities for case reports and discussion have been included with the luncheon programs. An audience response system is utilized with this program and has been received with much enthusiasm by previous course participants. This program is designed for cardiologists, internists, family practitioners, hospitalists and emergency medicine practitioners and is limited to 120 participants.

Objectives

Upon completion of this program, attendees should be able to:

- Differentiate between STEMI and NSTEMI patient management strategies

- Recognize management strategies to decrease readmissions for heart failure
- Demonstrate pre-operative cardiac evaluation
- List the pros and cons of different diagnostic tests used for evaluation of chest pain
- Evaluate recent results of Transcatheter Valve Repair/Replacement
